

Our Leadership

Our message and programs are backed by world-renowned scientists, best-selling authors, journalists, and professional educators. Our Advisory Council and over two dozen Associated organizations represent impressive expertise in conservation and youth leadership. They support A-Team For Wildlife because they believe that young people have a stake in their own future and they need to be better prepared to handle the challenges presented by the past and present abuse of our natural resources. Further, our leadership believes that kids not only can make a difference but are capable of providing leadership and should be recognized for their accomplishments and supported in their efforts.

If you believe in these things, too, join us. Only by joining together can we overcome the formidable obstacles of public complacency, corporate greed, and governmental lethargy in order to create a cleaner, healthier, brighter, safer future for the world of nature and all of humanity.

ANIMALS NEED MORE FRIENDS

This boy, Daniel, with his brother, William, two of our International A-Team Members, has raised $720,000 to help save orangutans!

“SERVING YOUTH SAVING ENDANGERED SPECIES”

International A-Team

We have gathered together, from many countries, the world's most amazing young champions of conservation to form our award-winning* International A-Team. This elite team of high achievers share their stories, pictures, videos and advice. Young General Members who demonstrate exceptional activity may be invited to join this prestigious, influential group. Our organization provides services to facilitate the careers of these Youth Leaders in conservation with internet services, mentoring, writing and speaking opportunities, public relations, and youth leadership training.

*The Int'l A-Team received the Environmental Excellence Award from the National Association of Environmental Professionals and a Commendation from the EPA, in 2015.

Local A-Teams

Local A-Teams are open to all children from ages 8 to 18. Joining A-Team For Wildlife is like joining a super club about animals, science, and community service. Members may join an existing Local A-Team, or start their own, to join up with friends who care about helping endangered species. Guidelines and benefits are available on our website. Kids love being on the A-Team!

Youth Presentations

Fostering Environmental Literacy in this new Climate Change Age, is our exciting STEM School Assembly Programs. Available to schools, youth groups, after-school programs, summer camps, etc. presentations are focused on natural science and conservation of our natural resources. They teach science, empathy, community service and youth leadership. Request a brochure on each of our presentation topics.

Conservation Tech

State-of-the-art technology, like robots and drones used in conservation are demonstrated in our assemblies!

Subscription to the A-TeamForWildlife.org website is free and offers our newsletters, petitions and announcements.

Youth Membership is only $40 per year, and provides all benefits.

Donations can be of any amount and support our youth education activities.

Exotic Bird Rescue

Parrots and Cockatoos in need of a new home are adopted and trained to participate in school presentations. They have proven to be especially well-suited as wildlife ambassadors as they love to travel and be the focus of attention. Fully one third of all wild parrots are threatened with extinction.

Adult Memberships

Grown-ups can participate as Members, Donors, Local A-Team Leaders, Board Members, Advisors, and Volunteers. Join our effort to Stop the War on Nature and help promote our petition campaigns. Visit our website for all the details and to sign up.

Wild Life Website

The A-Team For Wildlife offers an extensive website of information and activities as the hub for learning for Members. In addition to information about endangered wildlife, there are blogs for members to carry on discussions, videos and podcasts for learning from other members, sound libraries of wildlife from around the world, Web Cams of exotic animals, campaign assistance, handouts, and much more.
